MARMOT TO THE KILLER WOODCHUCK

Author/illustrator William “Not-Bill” Nealy lived most of his adult life in a home he built himself in the woods of North Carolina with his editor and permanent girlfriend Holland “Dr. H.” Wallace and an assortment of dogs, lizards, pigs, snakes, turtles, and amphibians.

Bob Sehlinger, William’s friend and Menasha Ridge Press founder, once remarked on the essence of William’s genius: “He was able to acquire skills and pieces of knowledge that he got by going over the handlebars and crashing and burning, and pass them along to a grateful readership.”

This deck features a collection of Nealy art grouped by four of his favorite subjects for illustration:

- ♦ Puns
- ♣ Critters
- ♥ William & Holly
- ♠ Wipeouts
