Learning To Learn

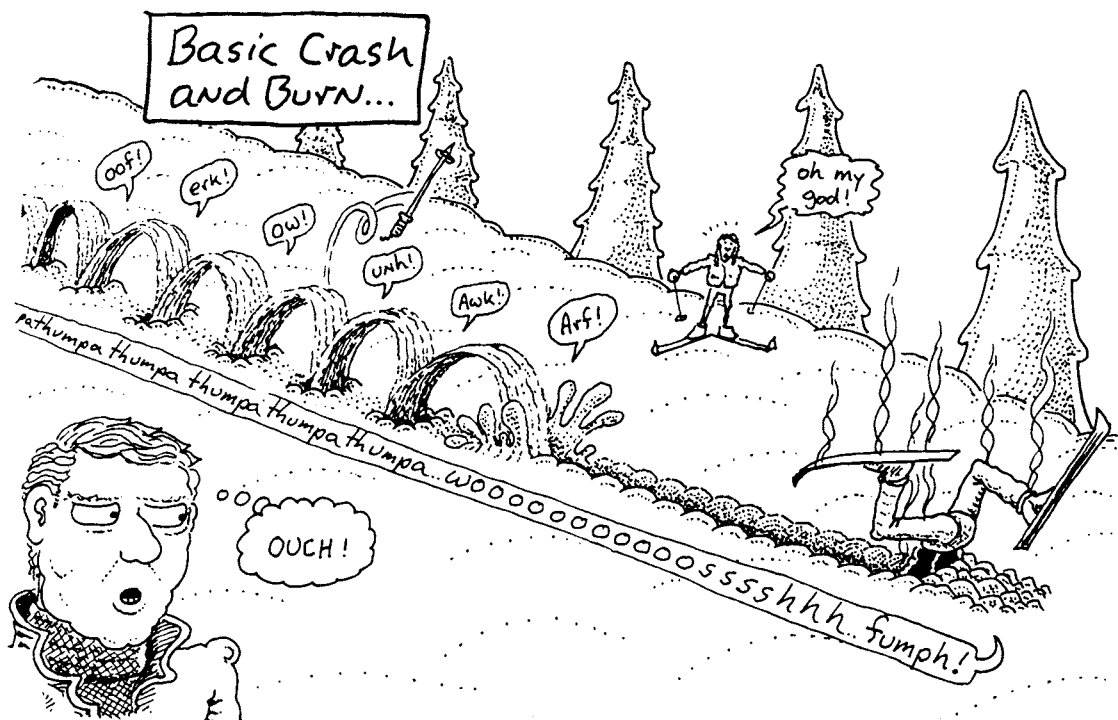

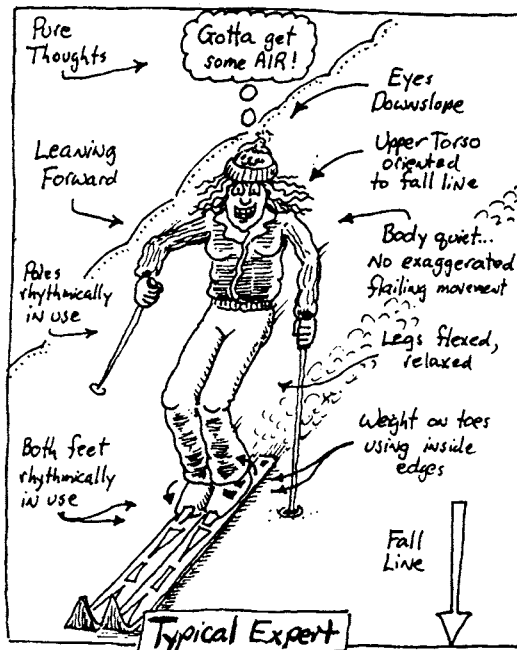

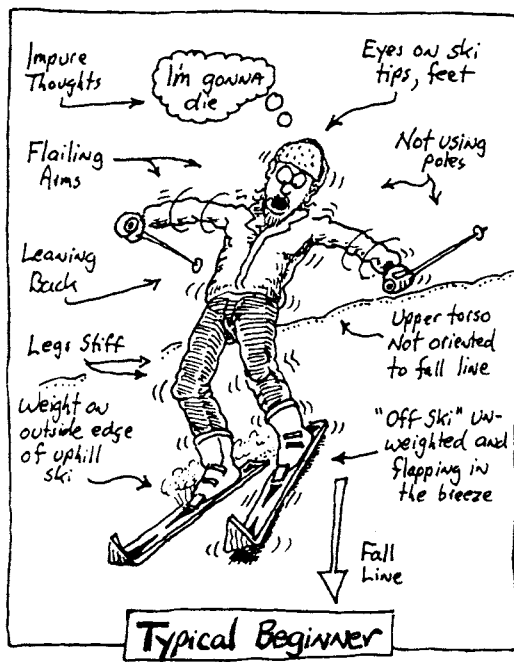

Most mtn. bike learning is of the self-instructed experiential variety. To wit, you ride progressively harder & harder stuff, wipe out a lot and learn from your mistakes (see below).

Eventually you will train your body to react quickly and instinctively to a wide variety of obstacles and trail conditions while having loads of fun. Mountain biking is a never-ending learning process and as long as you're having fun you are on the learning curve (see below).

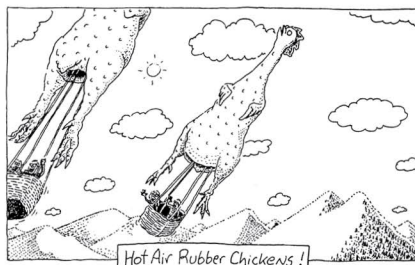

Beginners And Experts

Paddler, mountain biker, and cartoonist extraordinaire, William Nealy entertained and instructed readers with his zany, crash-and-learn humor and art for over 20 years. The Nealy Way of Knowledge, a collection of his classic cartoons, portrays the wit, insight, and humor Nealy fans have come to expect.

In this wild armchair adventure, you'll encounter strange but true camping stories, outdoor products you can't do without, hot air rubber chickens, skater moms, puns, an ode to duct tape, the roots of mountain biking, terrorizing squirrels, and killer woodchucks. If you don't fall on the floor laughing, you might want to check your pulse.

Inside you'll find skiing, mountain biking, kayaking, climbing, inline skating, fishing, hunting, and general sick humor.

William "Not Bill" Nealy was a wild, gentle, brilliant artist and creator turned cult hero. The subjects of his many maps and books included paddling, mountain biking, skiing, and inline skating. His hand-drawn, poster-size river maps of the Nantahala, Ocoee, Chattooga, Gauley, Youghiogheny, and several other rivers are still sought after and in use today.
